PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT & ENGINEERING

- The American Dream: From the vineyards of Italy to CEO, how Nino Vitale went from carpenter to head of a multi-million dollar industry.
- Do you know what a sunroom is? It's not your grandma's porch enclosure.
- What advances in engineering make today's sunrooms so different?
- Your sunroom looks good and performs well today, but what will happen in 10 or 20 years? Facts every consumer must know about sunroom construction before investing in one.
- What is thermal engineering? How does it affect climate control and comfort in a sunroom?
- How much do sunroom windows matter? What are the choices and how do you compare quality?
- What's the difference between 3-season, 4-season and extended season sunrooms? How do you know which you need?

Facts:

- Nino Vitale emigrated from Italy at the age of 22, unable to speak English or possessing a skilled trade. With a true visionary's dream, he created his own opportunities in the building industry, and drove innovation in new territories.
- TEMO innovated the use of thermal wall and roof systems in sunroom design, significantly taking porch enclosure designs of the past to the next level of sophistication in engineering.
- TEMO is the only sunroom manufacturer with an in-house engineering staff devoted to on-site product development and testing.
- TEMO has developed a patent-pending roof system that surpasses standard span capabilities to allow greater design opportunities.
- TEMO Sunrooms has developed and brought advanced engineering design to sunrooms that result in a product designed to last a literal lifetime. For example, our TEMKOR is an indestructible exterior and interior surface option.
- TEMO sunrooms are independently tested to meet or exceed national standards for all parts of the sunroom including windows, roof and walls.
- TEMO Sunrooms makes its own windows to ensure quality.

- Windows made by TEMO Sunrooms are the only in the industry independently tested for quality and certified by the exclusive American Architectural
- Manufacturers Association Gold Label program.
- TEMO windows can withstand hurricane-force winds.

PRODUCTION

- Working to keep production costs down: TEMO employs the latest hi-tech advances in manufacturing to combat rising costs.

Facts:

- TEMO's unique position in the sunroom industry as an on-site manufacturer of its products has driven time saving and cost-saving innovations. For example, a state-of-the-art supercomputer, nicknamed "Hal" creates on-site prototypes of parts, eliminating costly off-site production. Prototypes can be created in 7 hours, compared to an off-site turnaround of 7 hours and can be produced for an average cost of $15 per prototype, compared to off-site costs of up to $2,000.

SHIPPING

- From the factory to the dealer: Innovations in shipping that help drive business superiority.

Facts:

- TEMO leads the industry in shipping with just 2-4 weeks turnover from dealer order to dealer delivery, compared to an industry standard of 4-6 weeks. All TEMO products are custom made to spec, one order at a time.
- TEMO uses a dedicated shipping fleet, with an in-house operation base, to control shipping.
- TEMO shipping uses GPS systems to increase efficiency.

SALES

Consumers

- Sunroom cost: Why are there such variations in sunroom prices in the marketplace?
- How does TEMO justify higher-end pricing?

Facts:

- TEMO Sunrooms are exclusively manufactured to higher quality standards, and produce an estimated 70% or higher return on investment, depending on regional location.
- TEMO warranties their products to last the owner's lifetime, eliminating replacement purchasing. Additionally, and allows the transfer of warranty to new owners, producing a value-added element to the home on resale.

Careers: Sales/Dealers

- What is the career outlook in sunroom sales?
- Becoming a sunroom dealer – How do the retail opportunities compare to other home improvement industries and what does it take to become successful?

Facts:

- TEMO sunrooms are sold throughout the United States and Canada, offering diverse career opportunities.
- TEMO sunrooms offer industry-exclusive in-depth sales training at the corporate and dealer levels to encourage sales success.
- As a career, TEMO sales people have an opportunity to earn above-average livings with a high-demand product proven to withstand variable economic trends. Nationwide, in 2002, TEMO dealers almost doubled the number of sales personnel to achieve a million dollars in sales over 2001, from 24 in 2001 to 43 in 2002.

ADMINISTRATION

- New ways of doing business: Carving unique territory in non-franchised, franchises.
- What does it take to keep today's distributors on board?

Facts:

- TEMO dealers are primarily window and siding companies. A percentage has dropped auxiliary lines in favor of a TEMO Sunroom-only product line.
- More than 120 dealers operate across the U.S. and Canada.
- Tony V's Sunrooms and Spas is the Michigan retail outlet for TEMO Sunrooms, with two locations: Clinton Township and Canton. Open since 1995, the retail outlets, with full showrooms, offer a unique learning environment in which to develop and test new sales, training and administrative procedures before presenting to the general dealership.
- Sunrooms as a retail product off more profit potential compared to the typical window replacement or home siding job, for essentially the same man-hours.
- TEMO dealers can experience net returns of 15 to 20 percent, with up to two million dollars in gross retail sales if they follow our Sales Growth System.
- The TEMO Sales Growth System is an industry-exclusive system of training that includes sales, installation, administration and marketing training offered at the corporate level through TEMO University to dealers at every stage of development from start-up to expansion. Unlike typical manufacturers, TEMO supplies a product and the method for successfully operating a dealership and properly training sales staff as experts in sunroom design and sales.

MARKETING

- Taking it to the next level: Doing what other manufacturers don't – offer nonfranchised dealers full marketing support. Does it make a measurable difference?

Facts:

- TEMO provides full marketing support on request to its dealers to help ensure successful operation. An exclusive feature in the industry, TEMO Corporate
- Marketing operates from the corporate complex and provides a full range of marketing services that includes: training and materials, media planning and placement services, copywriting and video production, print graphics, and strategic analysis and support –at zero or minimum cost to the dealer.
- By offering individualized strategic marketing service to dealers that requested it, TEMO Corporate Marketing enabled 51% of our dealers to increase their 2003 YTD dealer purchases by 26% over 2002.

SUNROOM LIFESTYLE & HEALTH BENEFITS

- Is a sunroom a “need” or a “want” product? How does new health threats such as the West Nile Virus change the picture?
- Good-bye second-hand smoke: Sunrooms get the smokers out of the house.
- The new cigar movement opens a new market for sunrooms.
- Humans – attracted to the light: Sunrooms and light therapy.
- Spas: New therapeutic benefits of water therapy in treating rare diseases.

Fact:

- Sunroom additions rank in the top 7 home improvement projects, representing
- 33% of requests to more than 520 remodelers surveyed in four US regions, according to a recent Remodelers Council report.
- Studies link health benefits to light therapy, especially in the elderly and those that suffer seasonal depression.
- Sunrooms that feature spas offer additional relaxation and health benefits such as relief from back pain, muscle injuries, arthritis and fatigue. A lesser-known advantage of spa use is in the promotion of healing associated with some rare diseases such as the often-fatal skin disease, Epidermolysis Bullosa.
